What Is Money?

Weighted against that which it is often said to buy, money is a very poor thing. It is a mere token of value, and it is only as such that it is useful. It is not a thing in itself, but a thing which represents something else. It is a mere symbol, and it is only as such that it is useful. It is not a thing in itself, but a thing which represents something else. It is a mere symbol, and it is only as such that it is useful.

commissioners are making a remarkable showing of exhibits in prospect and on the grounds of the World's Fair, Chicago. They sent Major Bassett of the customs office one invoice of goods, received the other day, that footed up a total value of $24,000. The valuation is extremely modest, as may be inferred from the fact that a good toilet soap is quoted at 4 cents a dozen; toothbrushes at 10 cents; fans at 15 cents a dozen, and other articles in the same ratio.

WILLIAM M'ADOO.

He Has Been Called to Serve His Country in Official Capacity.

William M'Adoo, the new Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was one of the brightest of the younger members of the House in the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Congresses. He also served in the two succeeding Congresses. He is a strong and effective speaker, and in the last campaign did good work for his party. In the House, he was with the Randall, or the protection wing of the Democracy, and was a favorite of the ex-Speaker of the House.

Happy Land.

Two Irishmen who were admiring the Columbian parade in New Haven were in a manifold state of contentment as they sat on a bench and held the following conversation:

Pat—Mike, it's the finest procession I've ever seen.

Mike—I've seen it, but I don't like it.

Pat—Couldn't be bated, couldn't be bated. Look now, Mike, up and down the hull line an' it's the finest procession I've ever seen—not a blasted Yankee or a blasted Irishman in the whole thing.

Mike—But I say, Pat, what's the reason they celebrate on the eleventh?

Pat—Why, you see, Mike, Columbus landed on the eleventh but he didn't discover Ameriky until the twelfth—Judge.
